Miller and Frieboes employed the same model to study the effects of vasculature-induced heterogeneity and drug strength IC 50 on therapy efficacy of drug-loaded gold NPs Miller and Frieboes The results indicate that in the case of drugs with high IC 50, the intra-tumoral vascular density should be above a threshold for optimal transport of nanocarriers for satisfactory efficacy, while efficacy depends less strongly on vessel density for NPs loaded with drugs with lower IC A relatively less studied aspect that can potentially stall nanomedicine from clinical translation is NP-induced toxicity. Shaffer, Robert.

Furthermore, it might well seem that non-human animals have desires without being able to grasp the propositions a grip on which we so readily attribute to human beings Thagard A response, though, is that the natural phrasing conceals some of the complexity inherent in desire, and that the non-human animals who have desires have structure to their cognitive capacities that is expressed by talking about propositional content. Wait for the opportunity, and then let loose.
